

THE EVERLY BROTHERS REUNION CONCERT

One of the most influential duos in the history of rock n' roll reunited on the stage of London's famed Royal Albert Hall on September 23, 1983. Don and Phil Everly, two siblings with golden voices and acoustic guitars, performed together as The Everly Brothers for the first time since their acrimonious split, mid-concert, in 1973.

THE EVERLY BROTHERS REUNION CONCERT captures this historic event, featuring the duo performing all the hits that cemented their unique sound, including "All I Have To Do Is Dream," "Bye Bye Love," "Wake Up Little Susie," "Cathy's Clown," and "When Will I Be Loved." These songs married Don and Phil's signature two-part harmonies with a blend of rockabilly, bluegrass, country and pop – directly influencing legendary acts like The Beatles, The Beach Boys and Simon & Garfunkel.

The Everly Brothers have a total of 26 Billboard Top 40 singles, and in 1986, they were among the 10 inaugural artists inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. In 1997, they were awarded the Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award, and have also been inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame, Vocal Group Hall of Fame and Rockabilly Hall of Fame.
