

CHALLENGING CONVERSATIONS

PREMIERES MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27 AT 9PM

■ Learn more at pbs.org/thetalk

In homes and communities across America, a conversation is taking place between parents of color and their children – especially sons – about how to behave if they are ever stopped by the police. “The Talk,” as it is called, has become increasingly necessary in the wake of recent tragic events between people of color and law enforcement – such as the fatal shootings of Michael Brown in Ferguson, Missouri and Tamir Rice in Cleveland, Ohio, and the death of Eric Garner on Staten Island, New York.

This critical conversation – and a larger, equally timely one about the ever-widening gap between majority-minority populations in the United States—are the focus of The Talk—Race in America.

Directed by Sam Pollard (American Masters: August Wilson: The Ground on Which I Stand), the documentary presents six personal stories to illustrate the issue from multiple perspectives: the parent, the child, the police, and the community. A complementary multiplatform media initiative will feature extensive online, social media, and community engagement components.

Among those profiled are Dr. Christi Griffin, founder of The Ethics Project, who created “Parent2Parent,” a series of conversations with black parents speaking with white parents about “the Talk”; Samaria Rice (top left), mother of Tamir Rice (bottom left), a 12-year-old boy killed by the Cleveland police while playing with a toy gun in a local park; Reverend Catherine Brown, who was assaulted by Chicago Police in front of her children in her own car; Eric Adams, Brooklyn Borough President and retired New York City police officer; and members of the South Carolina Criminal Justice Academy, who explain the protocols for using lethal force and describe the danger from a police officer’s point of view.

Kenya Barris, creator and executive producer of the ABC series *black*ish*; musician/activist Nas; actor/director Rosie Perez; director/writer/producer John Singleton; and New York Times Op Ed Columnist Charles Blow also share their personal stories.

The Talk—Race in America reveals how communities are working together to understand racial tensions in our country and generate change, healing, and unity.

I’M KEEPING MY EYE ON YOU

In the most innovative production Nature has ever presented, Spy in the Wild employs more than 30 animatronic spy cameras disguised as animals to secretly record behavior in the wild. These “spycams” reveal animals as having emotions and behavior similar to humans: specifically, a capacity to love, grieve, deceive, and invent. Among the featured Spy Creatures are: Spy Orangutan, Spy Croc Hatchling, Spy Egret, Spy Tortoise, Spy Macaw, Spy Sloth, Spy Cobra, and Spy Baby Hippo. These robotic, uncanny look-alikes infiltrate the natural world to film surprising behavior among wildlife from around the globe.

The film examines child prodigy, "Boogie-Woogie Queen," and musical mentor to some of jazz's greatest musicians, Mary Lou Williams. A prolific jazz pianist, composer and arranger, she defied expectations – as a woman in a "man's world," as a black person in a whites-only society, and as a non-conforming creative genius in an image-driven industry.

Making A Way Out of No Way (1897-1940)

For more than 150 years, four nations vied to control Fort Niagara, a strategic point at the mouth of the Niagara River, and thus the critical water artery it protected. The fort is not only unique for its history, but for its longevity. Today, visitors can explore one of North America's largest collections of original 18th-century military architecture—reminders of the fort's important past.

DON RIEPE

Jamaica Bay fought government inaction and overcame Hurricane Sandy to clean up and restore the largest open space in New York City, which had become a dumping ground for garbage, sewage and bullet-riddled mobsters. Narrated by Academy-Award winning actress Susan Sarandon, Saving Jamaica Bay underscores the importance of citizen action and the role of urban nature in protecting our cities from the effects of climate change.
