

TREASURES OF NEW YORK: THE DRAMA LEAGUE

For more than 100 years, one organization has provided a legacy of service to the theatrical community, enhancing the professional, personal and creative development of artists, improving the quality of new work for the stage, and delivering audiences with a richer, more informed experience. Now, Treasures of New York pulls back the curtain and invites viewers to explore the history and cultural influence of one of the nation's greatest champions of the theater and performing arts: The Drama League.

Norm Lewis, Broadway, film and television star—and member of the Drama League Board of Directors—is your host, taking audiences behind the scenes of the internationally recognized institute, which not only develops dozens of new plays and musicals each year, but also provides training, workshops, professional development and global exchange programs for emerging theater artists.

Hear from Tony Award-winning director (and member of the League's National Advisory Council) Diane Paulus and others whose careers were launched by the League's Directors Project, a preeminent development program for early and mid-career theater directors. The competitive program has over 300 alumni that are working in all aspects of the American theater. "The Directors Project is the shining beacon of The Drama League," says Executive Artistic Director Gabriel Stelian-Shanks. "Many of [our alumni] direct on Broadway and have won Tony Awards and OBE's and Golden Globes and Emmys." The film documents the 2016 Directors Project Fellows receiving a hands-on demonstration and "how-to" lesson in "red carpet" from the Drama League's National Advisory Council member and two-time Tony-Award winning actress Judith Light.

Treasures of New York also takes viewers into the star-studded Drama League Awards luncheon, the oldest theatrical honors in North America, an event rarely glimpsed on television.

LONG ISLAND BUSINESS REPORT

Going into its seventh season, Long Island Business Report continues to explore the business trends that affect the nearly three million people who call Nassau and Suffolk counties home.

In the premiere episode, Michael Dowling, President & CEO of Northwell Health (right) discusses the future of Northwell Health—the largest integrated health system in New York State and the state's largest private employer—and healthcare on Long Island. In subsequent episodes, the series will cover issues with MacArthur Airport, wind energy, the Village of Hempstead downtown revitalization and Long Island's infrastructure post-Hurricane Sandy.

EVENTS SPOTLIGHT

A Bronx Tale, Broadway's New Hit Musical directed by Robert De Niro and Jerry Zaks, takes you to the stoops of the Bronx in the 1960s—where a young man is caught between the father he loves and the mob boss he'd love to be. Featuring a doo-wop score and written by Chazz Palminteri, it's about respect, loyalty, love, and family.

With an additional donation, enjoy a pair of tickets for this New York Times Critics' Pick on MARCH 15 OR MARCH 26, 2017, plus a post-show talk with the cast. For a list of upcoming WLIW21 events, visit wliw.org/ticketbooth or call 800.767.2121.
